1. Tab "A" of the attached papers purports to be a project for the action of the Projects Review Committee involving the expenditure of [redacted] for the exploitation of enemy document repositories.

2. Tab "B" indicates definitely that the basis for determining the cost of the project as specified in Tab "A" is of doubtful value, and that further investigation into the subject might considerably reduce the project, both in the United States and abroad.

3. Recommend that neither this nor any project be presented to the Projects Review Committee without more factual current data.

DEPUTY ASSISTANT DIRECTOR FOR OPERATIONS

Proposed Project for Exploitation of Enemy Document Repositories

1. Please find enclosed project on exploitation of enemy document repositories prepared as requested. I should like to add a few comments on this project which I trust you will find neither malapropos nor ill-advised.
2. Allow me first to annotate categorically the Committee's Memorandum.

a. Washington Document Center.

It is stated that 70% of 125,000 document backlog contains material on political-social-psychological subjects. This is followed by what seems slightly incongruous, i.e. that half of these are economic. Has this given you the true impression that there is just 35% of this backlog dealing with the subjects in question?

In the recommended personnel, there is allotted Japanese translator. Was it ever considered that he could only abstract and catalogue approximately 7,800 documents in two years or less than ten percent.

I believe that insufficient clarification has been made as to whether they are concerned with political-social-psychological documents covering strategic areas only or for such documents on the entire world. For Documents Branch let me definitely clarify this point. For strategic areas Documents Branch has processed all documents received regardless of subject. The low-priority backlog deals with French Indo-China and the Netherlands East Indies. Moreover this backlog will be processed in the next five months along with current material.

b. German Military Document Section

Information from GMDS reveals that the seven tons, stated in memorandum, is now down to about four tons. Haushofer's Library the largest source for information of this type is completely catalogued.

c. Tempelhof.

Information reveals that the [redacted] now are disputing the Kulturabteilung files and would like to make them unavailable to [redacted]. This might be considered before further action is taken.

d. Halstead

Informed source states that there are only technical documents at Halstead. Their two specialties - guided missiles and armament.

3. Realization of the four points mentioned above would seem to lead to the conclusion that:

a. A new complete and accurate survey should be made by qualified documents personnel.

b. An immediate effort should be made to clarify the Tempelhof situation and then effort expended in processing the Kulturabteilung files here if State is going to microfilm them.
